63 DIE IN STORMS Buckeye Lake Park Wrecked By Tempest

BODIES HUNTED AT OHIO RESORT

Three Columbus People Meet Death in Tornado

NINE PERSONS ARE INJURED

Amusement Places, Cottages Demolished

NEWARK, Ohio — (Associated Press) — Search of the storm-swept shores of Buckeye Lake Park, near Lima, for bodies of persons believed to have been buried in debris when a late yesterday resulting in the death of three Columbus people, was resumed today. A 17-year-old girl is missing. Nine persons are suffering from injuries none of whom physicians said, will die.

The search also extended to the waters of the lake, in view of possible drownings. As many as seven small boats were reported missing. A overturned canoe was found on the lake last night. The lake was dotted with fisherman and pleasure seekers when the storm broke.

The dead:
Myron E. Hill, 16.
Mrs. William M. Wohrle.
M. Seigler.

Olde Dean, Newark, is reported missing. Most of the injured were from Columbus.

PROPERTY DESTROYED

With scarcely any warning the tornado struck shortly after five o'clock, cutting a half-moon shaped path, half a mile in length and from 10 to 400 feet in width. The large eight, old mill and the miniature railway station were wrecked. The bath house was blown over into the water of the bathing beach and a number of cottages were either demolished or damaged. Trees were uprooted and poles and electric wires of the Ohio Electric Power company were blown down. Young Hill was caught beneath the wreckage of the bath house, and Mrs. Wohrle and Mr. Seigler who lived at a local hospital early today, were in cottages which were demolished. It is said more bodies may be under the bath house which is almost half submerged. Rescue work last night was hampered, owing to no lighting facilities and lack of equipment to clear the wreckage.

NARROW ESCAPES
Many people escaped possible death and injury. One of the narrowest escapes reported was that of Mrs. Lida Pryor, who with her husband, were in their cottage when the storm broke. The force of the wind lifted the cottage from over her head and carried it 100 feet. John News, of Newark, and a lot of eight friends in an adjoining cottage, saw the ascent of the cottage, just before the building was occupied was wrecked. Uninjured they hastened to the site of the cottage. Mrs. Pryor and her husband were found amid wreckage of the building and a stove, uninjured.

Property damage, it was said, will reach $100,000.
A few weeks ago, a portion of the park was swept by fire which resulted in damage of $75,000.

CRIES HATRED FOR FATHER OF BABE

ROSIE HARRISON, AND TWO SCENES IN HER LIFE'S TRAGEDY

New York Girl Pleads For Brother, Slayer of Her Betrayer

(By HORTENSE SAUNDERS)

NEW YORK — (Special) — One boy dead, another facing the death chair for slaying, and a little girl facing motherhood which she fears and dreads—that's how the curtain falls on New York's latest tragedy of the tenements.

It was a short act, but a dramatic one.

The characters were Rosie and Tom Harrison, brother and sister, and James Tierney.

Tierney wronged Rosie. Tom told her to marry her. Tierney refused. Tom shot him.

"And Tom was right," Rosie declares. She is now at the city hospital, awaiting the birth of her child.

AFRAID OF TIERNEY

"I did not love James Tierney," she sobs. "I was afraid of him, I hate him! He threatened me with a knife, and frightened me so I couldn't call for help. If he treated me that way, he would treat other girls that way. He deserves to be dead."

"But Tom shouldn't die. He did what he thought was right—what was right! He shot James Tierney not only for what he had done to me, but for what he would have done to other girls."

In his cell, Tom said: "I did just what any brother would do to a fellow who pretended to be his friend and then betrayed his sister—and a simple little girl like Rosie at that."

"I didn't know how things were until 'Sis' went to the hospital. Then dad told me. I told Tierney he'd got to do the square thing by Rosie. He said he wouldn't have anything more to do with her and he called her nasty names."

"I saw red. I shot him. Then I went to the police and confessed all I haven't seen a lawyer and I don't intend to. I've made a mess of things—but what could a fellow do under such circumstances?"

WOMAN ENDS LIFE

Slayer of Husband at Toledo Drinks Poison

TOLEDO — (Associated Press) —

Miss Curless Simon, 31, who killed her divorced husband, John H. Tepper, Toledo restaurant proprietor, in his own place of business here, April 9, committed suicide by drinking poison at the county infirmary early today.

Miss Simon who had been in a sanitarium here, under observation as to her mental condition since the murder, was removed to the infirmary three weeks ago. She was found dead in her room by an attendant shortly after seven o'clock this morning.

It is believed by authorities that she obtained the poison from outside sources.

RAILROADERS MAY DODGE LAW

Plan to Direct and Finance Strike From Canada

CHICAGO — (Associated Press) —

With additional wage cuts in prospect contemplating the move viewed pay cuts to 350,000 more railway employees, it was rumored today that a rail strike growing out of pay decrease decisions by the United States railroad labor board, might be directed and financed from Canada to evade the recent decision of the United States supreme court holding unions liable for damages caused by their members.

Leaders of the rail unions said to be contemplating the move viewed the establishment of Canadian headquarters as legitimate because the unions are international organizations. Financial penalties in case of a walkout could thus be averted, it was said.

NEW SLASH VICTIMS

The new wage reduction order is expected to increase the total cut from railway workers' wages to approximately $250,000,000 a year. Clerks, signal men, stationary firemen, oilers and marine department employees will join the shopmen and maintenance of way employees as victims of the slash.

Strike ballots to the 400,000 railway shopmen sent out from Chicago were accompanied by the following letter.

"Every possible effort should be made to obtain the vote of every employee eligible. This ballot will be tabulated as soon as possible and there must be no stoppage of work until you are properly authorized to do so."

"This is the time for action and not talk or unnecessary delay. The railway employees department desires that every ballot shall be in Chicago at the earliest possible moment and in no case later than June 30."

FORTUNE IS LOST

Arbuckle's Car Taken Along With Other Property

LOS ANGELES — (United Press) —

Fatty Arbuckle wants to come back. Barred from the films following his trials for manslaughter, Arbuckle, once wealthy, has lost his fortune, house and $25,000 car.

Fatty plans to appeal to Will Hays for reinstatement in the only game for which he is qualified.

Employees of the United Studios say Arbuckle walks about the studios, looks on at the filming of comedies in which he was wont to star and since his arrest has not made a penny, save for one scenario which he wrote for Buster Keaton.

Arbuckle's wife, Minta Durfee, who came back to him during his trial after the death of Virginia Rappe, is in New York, but Arbuckle expects her to return soon.

500 DELEGATES AT LABOR MEET

American Federation Convention Opens at Cincinnati

CONFRONT MANY PROBLEMS

Statement is Issued by Samuel Gompers

CINCINNATI — (Associated Press) —

The "open shop," unemployment, wage reductions, recognition of Soviet Russia, the one big union, court decisions, and injunctions affecting labor and other subjects formed the major issues that confronted the American Federation of Labor when it opened its two weeks' convention here today.

No debate was on the program for the opening sessions because of the preliminary routine and introduction of resolutions, some of these presenting new issues.

Delegates here for the opening were estimated at number 500, forming what Samuel Gompers, the federation president described as "the parliament of labor."

"Our consideration of industry and industrial problems," said a formal statement by Mr. Gompers forecasting the convention's work, "will be from the point of view of service to the masses of our people. Our consideration of political problems will be from the point of view of freedom and progress for humanity."

The big national guard armory, far removed from the city's business district, is the seat of the convention. Delegates, forming in parade down town marched on it in a body for the opening of the session at 10 o'clock. A thousand flags form the decorations and a band of 100 pieces played the accompaniment for the delegates in singing America as the first item on the program.

After prayer by the Rev. Father Peter Dietz, the program centered about a series of welcome addresses by Governor Harry L. Davis, Mayor George F. Carol, Secretary T. J. Donnelly, of the Ohio State Federation of Labor and others ending with Adolph Kammer, the temporary chairman, presenting a gavel made by Cincinnati carpenters, to Mr. Gompers.

2 WOMEN PICKED FOR GRAND JURY

Prosecutor Calls Mrs. Bowman and Mrs. Simpson

Allen-co women have come into full rights with men. They are now serving as members of the grand jury.

Mrs. Temperance Bowman, 335 N. Jameson-ave and Mrs. Julia Simpson, 723 W. Wayne-st are the women selected Monday to aid in the investigations to be undertaken by the jury.

Last week Judge Fred C. Becker, lowered the bars and allowed three women to be included in the petit jury panel called to try cases in common pleas court in June.

REPLACE ABSENTEES

Monday, Prosecuting Attorney Eugene Lippincott went a step farther. He called two women as grand jurors to replace men absent out of their boyhood. In years in Allen-co and perhaps in Ohio he called to investigate law violations.

The court gave the jury the usual instructions.

George Haller, was selected as foreman. After the jury were sworn in by John T. Cotner, clerk of the court they retired to begin deliberations.

Complaints against 16 individuals now under arrest are to be made by the jury. A number of surprise cases may be heard.

Two of the three women called for petit jury service were given places on the jury selected to try the case brought by Dr. A. B. Jones, against H. E. Renner, to collect for medical services.

ONE CHALLENGED

Mrs. O. I. Robbins, Spencerville, and Mrs. Burt Shaw, Perrytp got places on the jury. Miss Helen Cox, was challenged, because of acquaintance with one of the litigants. She may sit in other cases later in the term.

The case on trial is brought to from a verdict of Justice of Peace from a verdict of Justice of Peace W. P. Price, of Sugar Creek-tp. Dr. Jones originally brought action to collect $150 for medical services and X-ray treatments.

The burial marked the return of Greenville to old time standard.

WARRANT ISSUED FOR REEB

Violation of Eight Hour Law is Charged by Toy

COUNTY SURVEYOR TO FIGHT

Begins Move to Resist Removal as Highway Head

Affidavits demanding the arrest of E. E. Reeb, state contractor for violation of the eight hour law were filed before Justice of the Peace E. M. Botkin Monday by County Surveyor Walter R. Toy.

Toy's action is the initial move made by him to resist removal as resident engineer on state work by order of Director of Highways, Leon C. Herrick.

Reeb was ordered to discontinue working his crews in excess of eight hours some days ago, but continued to do so, it is stated.

Toy's move was anticipated by Reeb and the state department, and the former retained counsel Monday to defend himself from the charge. He has not been formally arrested, according to information obtained in court.

Appointment of a successor to Toy as resident engineer will be made soon, it was learned at the Division Highway office. Toy is appointed by the director, it is stated, and can be removed at his discretion.

In event a new engineer is appointed he will direct work in Allen-co, from the office of Grover H. Clements, division engineer, it is believed.

Clements had no statement to make regarding the controversy Monday. He said however, that complaints made against Toy did not originate in his office. Toy's authority as county surveyor is not affected.

WORK TO BE PUSHED
Decision to push work on county roads and place them in proper repair was made at a conference between the county commissioners, Auditor C. R. Phillips and Surveyor Toy, held Monday. Differences existing between Toy and the board were patched up, so as to allow work to proceed, it is stated.

SHRINERS GATHER

Conclave Opens at Frisco—30,000 Attending

SAN FRANCISCO — (United Press) —

San Francisco today became one continuous band concert plus thousands of men — in years out of their boyhood, but turning time backward for a week.

Garbed in the colors of Joseph's coat, they paraded streets, having a riot-roaring good time.

The Shriners hit the village, 30,000 strong, from Florida to Maine and way ports.

All day yesterday and until late in the night, every time the minute hand of the clock moved forward, another special train dumped its cargo of care-free Shriners, bent on a good time into San Francisco.

For one week, San Francisco will think nothing but in terms of the Mystic Shrine. The civic center park has been turned into an Arabian garden where weird lights play on a veritable fairy land.

ADMIRAL KATO TAKES OFFICE OF JAP PREMIER

TOKIO — The cabinet of former Premier Takahashi, smashed thru opposition to his liberal ideas, has been succeeded by one whose announced watchword is economy and which, a portion of the vernacular press declares, has tinges of reactionism.

These comments directed so far chiefly at the new premier, Admiral Baron Kato who took office today, are reinforced by other leveled at his policy of naming a non-party government which affects all the members.

Most of the members have seen service in former cabinets or in other governmental positions.

TOLL HEAVIEST AT NEW YORK

More Than Sixty Lives are Lost and Hundred Injured When Storm Hits Entire Metropolitan District—Property Damage Runs Into Millions

NEW YORK. — (Associated Press.) — The death toll of the brief but terrific hurricane that swooped down on the metropolitan area late yesterday passed the sixty mark today with indications that the total number of dead might go much higher.

The death list leaped ahead when an incoming tide turned up eighteen more bodies that had swept out to sea last night. Four bodies were recovered at Hunters Island and two were reported to have been picked up at Travers Island.

City Island—haven for Sunday pleasure seekers and amateur fishermen—was the hardest hit point in the metropolitan area but casualties mostly by drowning, were reported from many other points. The beach at City Island today presented a desolate spectacle. Several hundred persons, relatives of the missing—worn by hysteria, waited in little groups among the wreckage on the sand for some word of the fate of their loved ones.

Marine police exhausted by their all-night vigil continued their cruise, keeping a sharp outlook for additional bodies.

WATER OF LONG ISLAND SOUND IS STREWN WITH WRECKAGE OF SMALL BOATS
Thousands of rowboats and launches dotted the sound off City Island just before the breaking of the storm. When it had passed the water was strewn with overturned craft and the buildings on shore resembled a battle-torn village in no man's land. Many parties hurrying for safety saw people struggling in the water, but dared not stop for fear of capsizing their own craft. The rescue work started immediately but darkness and the panic-stricken crowds hindered the labors of the volunteer life savers.

Property damage estimated at from $1,000,000 to several times that amount was done by the tornado. The storm followed a day of intense heat and was as sudden as it was violent. Low-hanging clouds across the Hudson river were observed but they seemed to be far away and danger was unforeseen. Then, like magic, the western heavens took on a sinister aspect, the clouds seemed to dip toward the earth and before the frightened people exposed to the elements could reach places of safety the wind came.

FERRIS WHEEL WRECKED
Clason's Point, a pleasure ground near City Island, was in the direct path of the hurricane. A ferris wheel, heavily freighted with children and young people had just begun to revolve with its passengers when the wind struck it. So sudden was the transition from a bright June sky toinky clouds that the men in charge of the wheel could not stop it and discharge the people in the cars before the top of the wheel was torn away and the remainder crashed to the ground a tangled skein of steel. Dozens were buried in the wreck. Six bodies were later taken out and more than two score were attended by ambulance surgeons. A seventh victim died this morning. Frail buildings were crushed by the mighty weight of the wind, electric light wires were torn away and in the darkness and torrential rain the rescuers could do little until the storm had subsided.

Hysterical men and women, tearing blindly at the wreckage hindered rather than helped the workers engaged in lifting the ruins of the wheel. Police reserves numbering 200 were rushed to the scene and they restored order.

LIGHTNING HITS STREET CAR
The gale, which swept across the entire metropolitan district was accompanied by rain which stung like a lash from the force of the wind. Huge trees in Central Park were uprooted and tossed across the drive-ways. Five people were hurt when the wind blew out great plume signs from stores along Broadway and scattered haberdashery and clothing along the street.

In Brooklyn lightning struck a street car and knocked six passengers unconscious.

Electric signs along the White Way seemed special targets of the cyclonic wind. A huge sign extolling the virtues of an automobile tire was torn loose from its moorings, toppled over onto a sky-right, carried a smaller sign with it in its descent and started a fire from disconnected wiring. The force of the crash set off an automatic burglar and fire alarm.

QUAKE RECORDED

Earth Shocks Registered at Washington and Milwaukee

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — A heavy earthquake was recorded at the Georgetown university seismological observatory last night and a less severe one, probably more distant, was recorded about six o'clock this morning.

The first quake began at 11:54 o'clock last night and continued until one o'clock this morning with the greatest intensity about five minutes after midnight. The center of the disturbance was estimated to be 2,100 miles from Washington in a southerly direction. The second quake lasted about half an hour.

RECORDED AT MILWAUKEE
MILWAUKEE, Wis. — (United Press) — Two earthquakes shocks were recorded by the Marquette university seismograph here today. The first started at 12:55 a. m. and lasted 45 minutes. The second started at 6 a. m. and lasted eight minutes.

NEW SCHEDULE IS AID TO WOMEN

Part Time Employment for Added Number at Deisel-Wemmer

ADOPT "MOONLIGHT FORCE"

Three Hundred Are Needed—150 Start Work Monday

Addition of a moonlight shift to the regular daylight force at the Lima plants of the Deisel-Wemmer company was made Monday.

Practically only one hour of darkness in the schedule is made possible by the near approach of the longest day of the year June 21—and the adoption of daylight saving, Mark H. Kolter, production manager, said Monday. Darkness does not set in until between 8 and 9 p. m.

Carrying into effect the new idea designed to speed up production and enable the company to more nearly meet the demand created by increased orders, makes necessary the operation of cigar making machines longer hours. The only solution is in the direction of the addition of more employees, Kolter stated.

AID TO UNEMPLOYED

Officials of the company point out that the new plan affords the opportunity for many women to take advantage of partial time employment, who have household duties which require their presence and attention during the day. Three hundred women are sought, to be employed from 4 to 10 p. m., to increase production of the cigar factories.

Up to noon Monday about 150 applications had been received and a moonlight force started activity Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when the day force left off work. In addition to being a favorable opportunity for greater numbers of women to have the advantage of part employment, the hours are favorably arranged, the work is not difficult, the time is short, conditions inviting and remuneration liberal, Kolter states.

This is probably the first time in the history of the cigar making industry anywhere that such an opportunity has been afforded for women to gain employment. It is the first time the double shift plan has been applied in this city.

GOOD RESULTS SEEN

That good results are anticipated is indicated by the enthusiastic manner in which the management has taken up the plan and the favorable responses the call for additional help has been given. The company's production is oversold, officials state, making it necessary that forces be increased in the present plants or new ones established.

Advantages gained by the moonlight schedule are varied. It affords immediate results in production, increasing of payrolls when most needed by unemployed and presents the opportunity for women to become wage earners who would be unable to work on a strictly daylight schedule.

DATES TO RETIRE

Was 36 Years in Service of Buckeye Pipe Line

F. L. Bates, in charge of several departments of the Buckeye Pipe Line Co., announced his retirement Monday. It will take effect July 1. Bates has been connected with the pipe line company during the entire period of its operation here. He rounded out 36 years of service May 1.

Harry L. Pew has been named to head the oil production accounts after July 1. This was one of the most important of the departments presided over by Bates.

RUNAWAY YOUTH THOUGHT TO BE SEARCHING PARENTS, MISSING SEVERAL DAYS

Police and county authorities who have been seeking Alfred Clark, 16, runaway youth who for two years had been employed by R. H. Enoch, five miles south of Lima near stop 7 of the Ohio Electric Springfield division, are unable to locate him. He has been missing several days.

Clark was placed at the Enoch home by the board of charity, at Columbus. Shortly before he was missed he went upstairs and it is believed he threw a suitcase full of clothes from the window, afterward picking it up as he left for a field with the ostensible intention of caring for the cows.

The Enochs believe he may have gone away on the Ohio Electric, but have been unable to find a conductor who saw him board a car.

Until recently it was believed Clark's parents were not living, but it is now reported that they are and Clark may have gone to look for them.

SMITH AWAITS PROTEST TO RULE ON CANDIDACY

COLUMBUS. — Secretary of State Smith will not rule on the validity of petition of A. P. Sandies, Ottawa, candidate for Democratic nomination for governor until "the question is raised in the regular way, thru a protest against placing of the name on the ballot."

Smith is taking the same position with regard to the petition of Judge Thomas S. Dunlap, Cleveland, candidate for supreme court on the Democratic ticket. Both declarations, he pointed out, appear regular on their face.

Sandies' petition was signed and filed by his secretary instead of being signed and sworn to by Sandies, as the law apparently requires. Dunlap's petition was mailed from Cleveland Friday, and did not reach here until filing time had closed.

URGES YACHTING AS WOMAN'S PASTIME

MISS FRANCIS KNOWLES-FOSTER

Yachting is the ideal sport for women, says Miss Francis Knowles-Foster, latest Englishwoman to follow the example of Margot Asquith and Lady Astor in visiting America and studying her American cousins as they are at home.

"I'm surprised more American women don't take it up," she says, still referring to yachting. "Since the war many small boats—submarine chasers and even smaller craft—are for sale cheap. These can be made to afford excellent pastime."

LI AGAIN CHINA'S PRESIDENT

Executive Forced Out in 1917, Returns to Power

ENTIRE COUNTRY IS UNITED

Civil Warfare Kept Alive Five Years Believed Ended

PEKING. — (Associated Press)

China, after ten days virtually without an executive head functioning in Peking, again has a president and the nucleus of a cabinet. Moreover, if indications are borne out the two will have a fair share of support from the South China section whose opposition to the old government has done much, if not most, to keep alive civil war for five years.

Yuan Hung, who was president until the monarchist coup of 1917, forced him from office, again is in power. He came to Peking yesterday and resumed office and his first official act was to nominate Dr. Wu Ting Fang, former minister at Washington, to be his premier. It is understood that Dr. Wu had consented to accept this office before Li left his retirement.

Dr. Wu has been a power in the Canton government since that administration arose as a protest over the very circumstances which ousted Li, and his adherence to the executive if confirmed, is likely to do much toward solidifying the country in its support.

SOLID SUPPORT

Li comes at the behest of many members of the old parliament which he dissolved in 1917, and the urgent appeal of Wu Pei-Fu, dominant military leader of China.

As assets of his new venture he may count on the solid support of Dr. Wu Pei-Fu, the good will and confidence of a large proportion of the former parliament, now reassembled and a more complete repression of banditry than has been the case in many years. This last largely is due to Wu Pei-Fu's energetic campaigns, particularly that against Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchurian warlord, who recently sued for an armistice.

As liabilities he may count upon the open opposition of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, president of southern China. Dr. Sun has a good number of troops in the field, some estimates place their number as high as 150,000 and has expressed himself as willing to fight for the place at the head of China's affairs.

It is believed that President Li's government, after he has put his government into working order, will be the elimination of the system of Tsuchos or military provincial governors. This system has been credited by many students of Chinese affairs with the generation of many civil conflicts.

OBJECTS TO CLAY IN ALLEY

Seeks Injunction Restraining Neighbor from Filling Driveway

An application for an injunction restraining Leon Nesselhaus, 536 E. Vine-st., from filling an alley from Vine-st. to Michael-st. with clay, was filed in common pleas court Monday by Charles M. Dellinger, 535 Michael-st., a truckman.

The litigants reside at opposite ends of the alley. In wet weather Dellinger asserts, his only outlet from his garage is thru the alley to Vine-st. which is paved. Michael-st. is impassable, he says.

To make it possible to get in and out, Dellinger secured the right from property owners to fill in the alley with cinders, he asserts.

Nesselhaus, he claims has hauled in clay and filled his end of the alley eight to ten inches deep. He threatens to fill the remainder of the alley, the petition relates. This will make the alley unfit for use in bad weather, Dellinger says.

HOTELS AFFECTED BY LIMA CHANGE

Traveling Patrons Take Meals by Railroad Time

Adoption of daylight saving time has caused considerable confusion among the hotels of the city. This is due to the dining rooms especially, landlords state.

Every hotel in the city caters to the traveling public even more than it does to the local trade. It is necessary, however, to see that each is in no way inconvenienced, it is pointed out.

Traveling men keep their watches on Central time, the time recognized by the railroads. Their habits and meal hours are thus governed by Central time.

Local patrons of the hotels recognize the faster time and as a result take their meals an hour earlier than the majority of traveling men. This has made it necessary for the hotels of the city to recognize both Central and daylight saving time.

Since the change, in time, June 4, each hotel has found it necessary to lengthen the hours for each meal. Local diners eat at one time and the travelers at another.

People are eating later in the evenings, the headwaitress of one of the hotels said. No one wants to eat until dark; this begins about 8:30, the hotel between 8 and 9 p. m., she said.

Hotel managers are philosophical and agree that, while it is an expensive proposition, it will be the best thing to run their dining rooms on both times.

"That will get 'em coming and going," a manager said Monday.

HUSBAND QUIT WORK TWO YEARS AGO, WIFE ASSERTS IN REQUEST FOR DIVORCE

Two years ago Charles Fisher, 1460 S. Central-ave., ceased work, his wife, Blanche, charges in a divorce action instituted on grounds of non-support filed in common pleas court Monday. She asserts that she has been forced to support herself.

They were married in Lima in 1905. By dint of hard work, the wife states, she has acquired property in Avondale addition, a sedan car and household furniture.

Recently she was obliged to leave home for an operation. Upon her return, her husband refused to admit her to the house, she says.

She seeks a decree and asks that Fisher be barred from dower rights in her property.

ROTARIANS HEAR DR. J. W. HILL

Service, Synonym for Americanism, Famous Preacher Says

Service is a synonym for Americanism, Dr. John Wesley Hill, chancellor of the Lincoln Memorial, told members of the Rotary club at their luncheon Monday noon at the Hotel Norval.

"A spirit of service substitutes the 'greatness of love' for the 'love of greatness,'" he said. Dr. Hill will return for an evening meeting of Rotary, June 26, it was announced.

An invitation has been extended by the Lincoln Rotary club to the Lima Rotarians to attend a special dinner at Marion, July 4. The Bucyrus Rotary club has also been invited.

President and Mrs. Harding, General Pershing, Major Dawes and Secretaries Hoover and Weeks are among the guests expected to be honored at the dinner.

More than 75 Lima Rotarians and their wives are expected to attend the celebration. Arrangements are in charge of the entertainment committee headed by Fred Dorries.

Howard Hughes closed the meeting by reading the Rotary code of ethics.

SISTERS FIGURE IN ODD TRIANGLE

Psychologist Wins One, Divorced Weds the Other.

ANCIENT LOVE CHARM FOUND

Believed Man in Case Put Women Under Spell.

OMAHA. — Special. Oriental occultism and the mystic love teachings of the East are weirdly mixed here with western manners and modern psychoanalysis in the strangest triangle on record.

At the tip of this triangle stands Roy Franklin Hall, psychologist, who, swathed in the flowing gown and turban of the Orient, taught occult philosophy to classes of Omaha society women.

At the triangle's other two corners stand two sisters, both daughters of a late United States circuit judge, close friend of ex-President William Howard Taft and veteran of many terms in Congress.

Hall has just wed one of these sisters after having been divorced from the other two months.

THEIR TANGLED LOVE

Here is the story of the Orientalist's tangled amours:

Hall met Barbara Smith, attractive Council Bluffs (Ia) society girl and daughter of United States Circuit Judge Walter I. Smith, at Hollywood, Cal., early in 1920.

At the wedding, which took place in Hollywood, Miss Smith's maid of honor was her sister, Grace. The two had had close pals through their lives and loved each other devotedly.

Grace was a teacher of psychology in the public schools of Macedonia, Ia. She took a keen interest in the psychological teachings of her new brother-in-law.

Hall began to give Grace a course of instruction in mental mysticism. The trio returned from Hollywood to their homes. Soon a rift began to appear in the marital happiness of Hall and his wife Barbara.

In January of this year Barbara sued for divorce, charging cruelty. While the divorce was pending, she became the mother of a baby girl. The writ was granted in April.

Then, almost before the ink on the decree had dried, Hall married Grace Smith.

PERMANENT LOVE CHARM

Today Barbara, comparing to leave for California with her mother, while Grace is confident of finding happiness with Hall where her sister found only unhappiness.

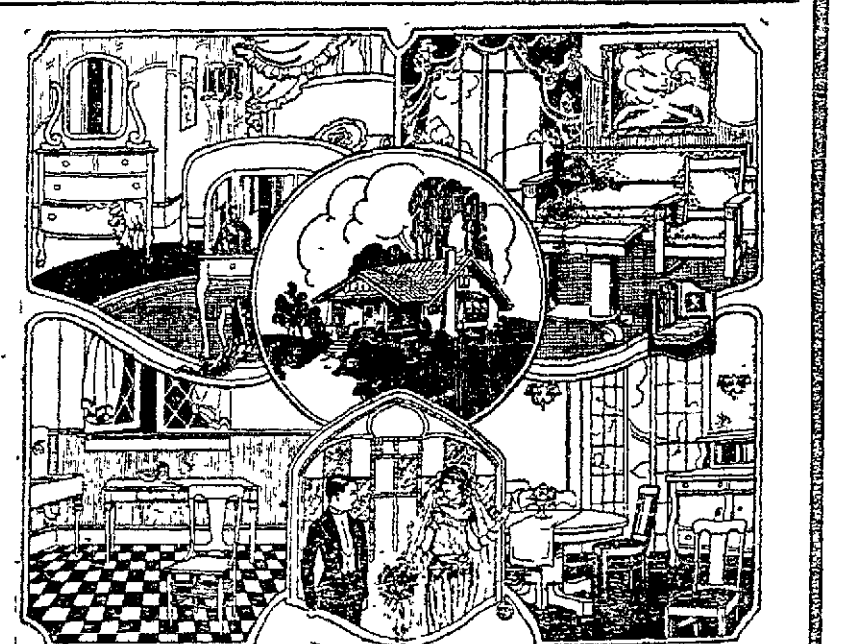

Meanwhile some women members of Hall's classes in mysticism state seriously their belief that Hall has found the ancient Persian love charm that enables him to command the love of whomever he wills.

BUSINESS REVIVAL On Business Tour AIDS TAXES By Plane

Internal Revenue Collections Being Speeded Up, Report

MARSH SEES IMPROVEMENT

Installment Plan May be Used, He Points Out

Eddie Rickenbacker

Revival of business has enabled many persons to pay their obligations to the government, reports Marsh. Many of these payments have been due since March 1921, J. C. Marsh, deputy collector of internal revenue, says.

As it is impossible for the complete payment to be made at one time the government is willing to turn "Credit Man" and permit the taxpayer to liquidate his debt on the installment plan.

Taxpayers are often surprised to discover how much the government knows about them and their business. Whenever a delinquent moves from one section to another, he finds the government is right behind him ready to collect as soon as he has the money.

BOOTLEGGERS LIABLE

There is only one class of citizens against whom the government cannot enforce its claims, Marsh states. They are those who have been convicted of operating a still. Marsh says that a still is liable for a tax on the still as well as a fine for the illegal manufacture of the banned liquid. A number of these taxes have been levied against Lima persons but few have been paid.

Most of those in the bootlegging business have no real property and cannot therefore be forced to pay the tax. It is possible under certain sections of the law to send delinquents to the federal penitentiary, Marsh says.

If those operating a still were faced with the alternative of paying the tax or going to the penitentiary they would dig down into their hidden wealth and find the amount needed. This would result in increased revenue for the government, Marsh believes.

BUSINESS HELPS

Better business conditions have made it much easier for taxpayers to pay the second installment of their 1921 income tax, Marsh has found. There will be fewer delinquents this quarter than last, he believes.

Thursday is the last day for the payment of this second tax payment. Late tax payers may pay up at the office of the deputy collector in the postoffice building. It will be open from 8 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. central standard time, each day.

CITY DEFEATED IN WAGE FIGHT

Toledo Employees Win Victory in Court Decision

TOLEDO.—(Associated Press).—The city of Toledo lost all angles of its fight to reduce wages of unskilled employees thru the decision of the special court of common pleas judges who today granted a permanent mandamus against the city administration's wage cutting program.

Under the decision concerned in by Common Pleas Judges Byron F. Ritchie, Harry W. Lloyd and James Martin, the city must pay unskilled employees at least 50 cents an hour. MINIMUM PAY FIXED

The writ of mandamus does not specify how the laborers shall be graded, but specifies that the minimum wage shall be 50 cents an hour. The writ being permanent, the only alternative is for the city council to repeal the city wage ordinance.

The action was brought against the city by James W. Runyan, representing the Central Labor Union, when Mayor Bernard Brown announced a cut in the wages of unskilled employees from 50 to 35 and 40 cents an hour on March 1.

NEW YORK.—Edward V. Rickenbacker is making a business tour of the United States by aeroplane. With three companions, he left Curtiss field, near Garden City, L. I., on June 6, for an aerial journey which will end in Detroit about September 1. His itinerary includes 66 cities in nearly every state in the union.

It was to make an industrial review of the country for the Rickenbacker Motor Company, with which he is connected, that "Eddie" undertook the trip.

He will also, however, upon completion of his tour, send a report to Maj. Gen. Mason Patrick, chief of the United States aerial service, from the standpoint of national defense, in which he will furnish all possible information concerning emergency and permanent landing places, meteorological conditions and the state of public interest in aeroplaning.

Rickenbacker's companions are Edward Stinson and Lloyd Bertaud, skilled flyers, and Steve Hannigan, a writer, who will act as historian of the trip.

The party will travel in the comfortable, enclosed and electrically lighted cabin of a Junker all-metal monoplane, equipped with a BMW motor of 185-horsepower.

CIGARETTE SETS RIVER AFIRE

Oil On Surface Of Ottawa Bursts Into Flames

A cigarette thrown into the Ottawa river from the Collett-st bridge is believed by Fire Chief John Mack to have caused the ignition of a pool of oil on the surface of the water, Sunday at 9:30 p. m.

Flames leaped 15 feet in the air. The fire was allowed to die out. A large crowd was attracted by the sight.

Chief Mack intimated Monday, he may begin an investigation to determine the extent of the oil accumulation in the river and the possible damage to adjacent buildings. It was said by the chief that if oil drains into the river as much as reported to him, a wall of fire might sweep down the stream in event it was ignited, and do thousands of dollars of damage. His findings may result in a recommendation to the city commission that factories discontinue the practice. There is not much danger in the portion cutting thru the heart of the city as in the lower reaches, Mack said.

CARPET SLIPPERS AND DRINKS BRING IRWIN INTO COURT; FINED $15

And he worships at the shrine of Bacchus, wearing carpet slippers. That's what police say.

They arrested F. A. Irwin, 536 W. McKibben-st., Sunday upon complaint that he has the habit of salting North each Sunday to saturate his inwards, and that each time the slippers are a part of his habit.

They found him drunk at Wayne-st. and Central-av Sunday and the familiar carpet brogans were on his feet, minions of the law say.

Irwin sadly admitted it was so in police court Monday and drew $15, which he paid.

Sam Falk, 49, 1304 W. High-st., also was taxed $15 on a charge of drunkenness.

Mrs. Jennie Shook, 1121 S. Main-st., reported to police her husband went into a cafe at Main and Second-sts Sunday, became drunk and was beaten up.

"Sounds like old times," an officer said. No arrest was made.

JURY INVESTIGATIONS

WHEN the grand jury meets at fixed intervals, there is a mixed state of feeling among the people generally about it. Those who walk the straight and narrow way as all good citizens should, have no fear of results and attach no more importance to the important announcement than they would to the recital of anything of news value.

Among that contingent of citizenry which lives by its wits, or which has attained an unenviable record as persistent violators of the law, it is likely that the contentment of ease does not abide so prominently. A guilty conscience is its own accuser for those who choose the primrose path; depart from the way of rectitude.

Among criminals, the fear of exposure and punishment is ever present. It is a nightmare that cannot be dissipated. Hence, when the grand jury has completed its investigations, has reported and those whose conscience has been troubling them fail to find their names among those who have been indicted, they probably heave a sigh of genuine relief—and then fearfully anticipate the next session.

The grand jury is an institution that is designed to be a detriment to crime. The constant menace of indictment probably restrains many from wrong-doing who would otherwise fall for temptation. Those who remain outside the pale of necessity for grand jury action deserve no particular credit. They are but doing as all citizens should do.

FORETELLING FUTURE

JULY will be a month of big news—important happenings, also those less important events that are more interesting.

You can bank safely on this. No witchcraft is involved in the forecast. It will be the inevitable reaction from the dull, uneventful conditions thruout the world—which you have noticed lately in reading the newspapers.

News has been "running quiet," very little "breaking" except routine events. So quiet, in fact, that even editorial writers—who usually find no difficulty in saying much about nothing—have been hard put to it, for something to comment about.

When born newspaper men observe the news running into a slump like this, they begin to sniff the air. Instinct tells them that a wave of big news is about to "break."

This instinct is so highly developed in some newspaper men that occasionally, when things are dull, they suddenly get a premonition that something important is on the verge of happening. Then they sit tensely, watching the telephone and telegraph.

News runs in waves. It's either a feast or a famine. A long, dull streak always is followed by such a congested and sudden outburst of events that the big problem becomes one of elimination—determining the 50 best bets out of 100 good ones.

You have observed these waves in the past—crime waves, suicide waves, the recent wave of brokerage house failures, etc.

The impending wave of news may arrive before July—any hour.

Mysterious undercurrents are constantly at work all thru man's civilization and in what psychologists call the social mind, or composite brain of the masses.

Life is an endless cycle of action and reaction.

The highest prices come just before the panic and smash. The duller existence is on the eve of exhilarating excitement. The blackest hour is just before dawn. The hour of contentment and bliss precedes monotony.

All this is part of the wise scheme of things—contrast—without which, life would be dull and boring.

OFF AGAIN, ON AGAIN—

The ocean tide runs out so far, then it turns and starts back, so on forever. So, too, with the mental and emotional tides that pulsate thru humanity. Confidence, like pride, cometh before the fall. Discouragement is the forerunner of better things.

BOONE

JAEQUELIN AMPLER CASKIE, rummaging in the garret of an old Virginia mansion, finds a letter written by Daniel Boone, celebrated vagabond, in 1784.

The letter shows Dan was a "poor speller." He spelled "done" D-u-n and "humble" o-m-b-e-l.

So did nearly everyone else, in those days, for that matter. Common school education for all is a development of the last century, and easily the greatest of modern marvels.

Defective spelling didn't worry Boone, who punctuated his communications with rifle bullets. Spelling is needed now in making a living. But it wasn't in Boone's day. One of his greatest achievements was leading a party of 30 to Lower Blue Licks, in the Indian country, to get a supply of salt.

Today he'd give his son a nickel and send him to the corner store.

POEMS YOU WILL ENJOY

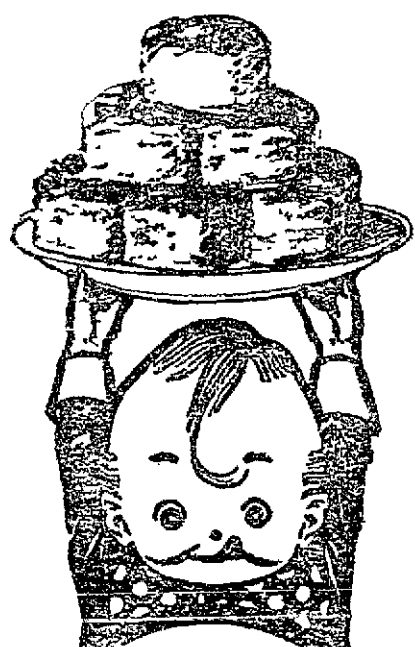

BY BERTON BRILLEY

SAURMUTH

Her children were her all-in-all,
She gave her time and thought to them,
Her dreams, her visions great and small,
Her heart's deep love she brought to them;
Unselfishly her strength she gave
To make them "nigger, cosier."
She made her life a willing share
That they might find his rover.

She gave up all the things that make Life merrier and bricier,
Believing that she thus might make
Her children's progress easier;
She scrimped and saved and toiled
And drudged
Thru years and years laborious
And by the neighbors she was judged
A mother meritorious.

But when her labors are reviewed
With calm judicial clarity,
We find she raised a selfish brood,
Sons thoughtfulness or charity,
Her children took but never gave
And selfishness thus grew in them,
Self-sacrifice made her a slave
And only served to ruin them.

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well

HAY FEVER

Hay fever is giving way gradually to medical science. Hay fever sufferers are legion. Many are attacked at the same hour of the day each year. Many seek relief in new climates, but now comes word that relief is possible in many cases right at home.

If hay fever comes at practically the same time each year, a fairly accurate guess often may be made, by noting the particular grass, weed or flower pollen common at that time. In hay fever or asthma occurring at odd times it is wise to have a competent physician examine the throat and nose for any obstruction in the upper air passages.

If none can be found, it should be noted whether or not the attack is preceded by contact with certain animals, absence of which gives relief.

It should next be noted whether the patient is free from symptoms when away from home. If so, the patient should experiment by substituting hair for feather pillows, cotton for hair mattresses, etc. Women and girls afflicted with hay fever or asthma should be careful not to use talcum powder containingorris root. Note should also be made as to whether the symptoms always appear after eating such foods as eggs, strawberries and certain cereals.

If these simple tests all fail, a physician oftentimes can decide what causes the attacks by inoculating into the skin of the arm minute amounts of a sterile extract of each of the pollens or other substances considered capable of producing the symptoms. No discomfort is felt until the substance actually causes the trouble is injected, when a slight swelling, reddening and itching occur. Once the right substance is thus detected, relief usually can be obtained by weekly inoculations of the offending substance, thus causing the body to manufacture its own antitoxin.

Some stranger asked Miss Tawney Apple's take a ride last evening, but she felt too tired to walk. "Nottin' makes me so sore as buyin' a swell waddin' present for somebody, an' then readin' in a week or two 'that the askin' for a divorce,' said Tell Martin, today.

stairs. So, out in the broad day and away to walk, it being the most summer weather that ever was seen. Tied bravely at the court house to hear the discourse on the good and bad roads propaganda. And do find a great hub bub with Toy willing to put on gloves and fight it out, if it takes the year thru.

Met a femme superieure, gowned in the lowered skirts, with shoes cut to the instep. And very pretty she was, and gracious. Bowed to Alfred Wemmer, the cigar manufacturer, and pleasing he was to me. Thence to pay my monthly chit at the gasco. And did find many others seeming in complaint against the tax, claiming their meters worked while they slept. Yet the attendants courteous and listening well to the tales which they do often hear each month from divers persons.

So to lunch afoot, meeting Franklin Cover, the financier and Bill Boop, the farmer who gave up the race track for his ploughed and fertile acres. And thinking so, once home gave our garden the look over with gravid radish beds of noble brands. In the afternoon to the club where sat many business men gathered for golf. And in one quartette played the super men, Jim Sullivan, Ben Thomas, Harry Monton and George Bayly. And another quartette embraced W. L. Russell, the oil king; Frank Ralston Mitchell, the motor coach broker; Next W. Cunningham, the retired capitalist; and Jack Sweeney, one of the so-called men of scratch fame.

In the evening, gayly greeted Milton L. Neely, here for a week-end from Tulsa, Oklahoma and bringing his wife back for the summer at her Indiana home. He in time rettle and looking fit. After dinner strolled down the avenue, and watched long the shoppers. But mighty pleased betimes to hear the music played by a wondrous out of doors band on Market-st west. And many were there and tarried long. So down the avenue, greeting Jim Jolley at his doorway and purchasing a new pair hose, against an old brace seeming frail.

At the poste, saluted by a letter from the Hon. John L. Cable who for me did a service the past week which I am much grateful and will try to duly show him.

Chatted a bit with George Glover, the master salesman and bowed to Ben. Rosenbaum in his handsome coach and six. In discourse with Earl Seale did learn that butchers no more give away liver to patrons nor yet present soup bones to those who pay their bills promptly. So home and to bed.

EVEN STRANGLERS CAN'T MAKE "THE DRUMS" GRIPPING DRAMA

BY JOHN O'DONNELL
NEW YORK—The dramatization of Harold McGrath's novel, "The Drums of Jeopardy," has brought to the stage all the tried and true devices for inducing shivers on summer nights.

Green lights, off-stage beating of drums, Bolshevik agents plotting on fire-escapes, a disguised prince, imperial emeralds of sinister history, a war correspondent, a beautiful girl reporter thrilled and thrown into a garret—all this and much more has been used to create pop-eyed terror.

But the machinery creaks and "The Drums of Jeopardy" sound no genuine alarms.

This story which is one of the few popular novels to be dramatized on Broadway this season, was undoubtedly written with an eye for the movies. Certainly it was not written with an eye for the stage.

The lines are stiff and awkward; no acting, and there is some real ability in the cast, can make the characters live.

The failure to realize that book talk and stage lines are not one and the same is one defect. Another, and this fatal, is the sloppy work of the dramatists who tell the story so clumsily that few in the audience know what it is all about.

It is this technical sloppiness that obscures the really good work of Marion Oakley, who makes a very charming girl reporter, and of William Courtright, who is "tall cast" in the role of "Cutty" the seasoned war correspondent.

The play is chiefly notable because of the numerous adventures in strangulation. At one time or another, practically every member of

MARION OAKLEY
The cast is nearly choked to death. It was probably meant to be a gripping drama.

MRS. J. H. GOEKE'S 1 o'clock luncheon at the Shawnee Country club, Monday, was a handsome arrangement, bringing together a large group of guests.

The one large table at which the guests were seated, was artistically daintily, a color scheme of pink and white being carried out in the decorative effect. Miss Inez Heller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Heller, of W. Wayne-st., became the bride of David E. Irwin, formerly of Cleveland, now of this city, at a pretty ceremony Sunday at high noon, at the home of the bride's parents.

The Rev. W. H. Baker, pastor of the South Side Church of Christ received the vows and pronounced the benediction. Preceding the service Miss Helen Bowers sang, "At Daring-ing." Mrs. Inez Heller presided at the piano, while the Rev. Mr. Heller played the violin accompaniment.

The bride was attractive in her gown of white satin. A panel of iridescent beads extended the entire length of her dress, while white satin panels hung from each shoulder. The veil of tulle was caught to the coiffure with a headband of iridescent beads and clusters of white rose buds. The bride carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses.

Miss Elizabeth Jarner, of North Baltimore, the bridesmaid, was attired in a blue satin frock with an overdrape of chiffon, heavily embroidered with crystal beads. Her corsage was of pink and white roses. Miss Jarner is a cousin of the bride. William Irwin, of the U. S. S. Wyoming, a brother of the bridegroom, was the best man.

Immediately following the ceremony a pretty appointed wedding dinner was served in the lounge at the Hotel Norval.

The bride was graduated from Lima Central high school in the class of 1917. Mr. Irwin is a graduate of the Radio School of Cleveland. For several years he was engaged as an operator on the Great Lakes and the Atlantic.

MAKING OLD-TIME APPLE DUMPLINGS

Nothing will add more zest to an evening or holiday meal than good old-fashioned grandmother's apple dumplings.

Here's how to make them — in the real old-fashioned way:

Sift flour, sugar and baking powder into mixing bowl. Cut in cream with a knife. This dough should be as stiff as pie dough.

Roll about one-fourth inch thick. Cut in squares. In the center of each square pile apples which have been pared, cored and cut in quarters.

Sprinkle lightly with sugar, dot with bits of butter and bring the four corners of the square together over the top of the apples.

Bake in a moderate oven 45 minutes. The oven should be hot when the dumplings are put in and the heat reduced slightly as the crust bakes.

After the first 15 minutes of bak-

DINNER GOWNS

Navy blue lace now is one of the most popular materials for dinner gowns. Next in favor is brown. These are made simply, usually sleeveless, and with satin or taffeta in the same color used in combination.

VIOLETS

A very lovely and distinctive frock is of pongee colored silk, trimmed with violets outlining the surplice cut of the bodice, and orchid silk facing the loose panels at either side.

MISS CHRISTEN'S DAILY PAGE OF CLUB AND SOCIETY EVENTS IF YOU'D BE STYLISH, YOU MUST BE BARBAROUS!

A TYPICAL "BARBARIC" COSTUME OF THE PRESENT SEASON

By MARIAN HALE

Barbarism is the order of the day, sartorially speaking. The South Seas, India, China, Egypt, Persia and other corners of the earth are yielding up their trinkets and jewels and we are wearing them all—frequently all at once.

So far, I have noticed no nose-rings, but earrings have developed to such proportions one can't help wondering just how long the earlobe is going to stand the strain.

Some of them reach to the shoulder—the earrings—a cascade of jewels and metals. Often the jewels are as large as a pea.

The number of bracelets a woman may wear is limited, naturally, by the linear measurement between her knuckles and her shoulders, but the average will accommodate a surprising number.

These vary from coiled serpents of gold or silver, which wrap about the upper arm several times, to heavy gold bands, like handcuffs. It is quite the fad to wrap a long string of pearls about the wrist and let the strands fall far over the hand. This is very Oriental.

Jeweled daggers are popular for turbans. Sometimes the whole turban is made of silk or metal cloth, thickly studded with jewels in barbaric colors.

The simplest frock or coat sports a bolt of woven beads or jewels or medallions, set in old metal.

No longer is the single strand of pearls the thing. One now wears several. A heavy cord of woven seed pearls is highly desirable.

Pendants of carved ivory are very smart, worn on a black ribbon. Often, too, a life-sized rose of carved white ivory will be stationed on the end of a necklace.

Beads of carved ivory are very much prized and many display exquisite handwork.

Heavy tassels of small pearls or other stones are the correct finish for jeweled chains.

Designers say the tendency is to grow more barbaric and to include more nationalities in our daily exhibit, as the season advances.

A LA MODE

Most men dislike bobbed hair. It's inherent, from point to point.

For example, in Greenland a girl has little to say about choosing her husband. Her father picks a husband for her.

But the girl can spoil the match, if she objects to her father's choice, by cutting off her hair. Among the Eskimos, for a woman to wear hair short is a disgrace.

Short hair; no husband.

OUR FIRST YEAR

—BY A BRIDE.

AGAIN—JACK AND I BOTH IN BAD HUMOR AT ONCE

Did you have a pleasant walk last evening?" asked my husband when we exchanged an abbreviated and surreptitious caress on the mezzanine before breakfast.

I took it for granted Jack had seen me go to the garage to hunt my pearls, so I answered:

"Yes, did you? and did you sleep well?"

"Possibly."

My chance to refer to my fox scarf I was wearing for the first time did not come until we were finding our places in the cars. Then I whispered:

"How do you like my pet fox?"

"Stunning! Is it yours, dear?" I noticed it at breakfast. Thought you'd put on Donny's."

"It's mine!" I announced gleefully; and indeed I was glad to so casually break the news of my purchase. Not that Jack ever had been horrid about what I bought for myself, but sometimes my shopping trophies made me feel he wasn't earning enough.

Before noon I realized the fox stole or something had started another rift between us, that some occasion was spoiling our day.

Certainly it was unfortunate my nerves and Jack's should be frazzled at the same time. That's always the way, I've found. Maybe its action and reaction. Sometimes I've thought if I would make an effort to control my own nerves I wouldn't notice Jack's so much.

The big things, emergencies, disappointments, never disturbed us, but we seemed to be always on the lookout for some excuse for a petty mood.

If Jack had his reason for moods, all that trip, I soon discovered an excuse for my own.

Bonny always ran for the letters when we stopped for the night.

"Who's your lady friend, Jack?" Your steady correspondent?" she cried as she flipped a note to him.

"Your mother?"

"Somebody old enough to be his mother," I answered for him. Jack put the letter into his pocket, made no comment, and never referred to it again.

Said I to Me:

"He never opens them until he is alone! And I'm quite helpless. He and I are to be good chums and pals. I must accept everything, he need never explain. Therefore, my dilemma I've just got to endure, and endure! And—it—is—not—fair!"

WHY FLAPPERS FAIL! Their Dress and Deportment

AGNES DOHONEY, HER DOG

(BY AGNES DOHONEY)

(Selected as Convention Girl by the Disabled American Veterans of the World War in a contest from which all flapper types were barred and only "home types" admitted.)

Possibly the most persistent criticism of the flapper concerns her dress and deportment.

It she follows the latest and ultra extreme modes, then she will have neither distinction in clothes nor originality. She will look like a hundred other girls or women in any clad.

Every woman knows what distinction, style and tone mean in dress. And she fails in these then she fails in dress.

Her use of cosmetics is a matter of opinion, but I know few thinking people who will disagree with me when I say that if she already has the charm that nature automatically presents to youth, the flapper is doing herself no good by resorting to artificial methods.

This is really not quite the important point that some make of it. But it is quite generally an indication of how poor the judgment may be. For very frequently she loses something and gains nothing.

In the matter of deportment, we hear that she disports herself flagrantly in the public eye, hunts out grown-up company and "buts-in" whether wanted or not. Certainly this cannot make for popularity.

Rather she is soon likely to be regarded as a pest and a bore, unless she fits herself for the company she seeks.

And in the end—failure once more.

(More on "Why Flappers Fail," by Miss Dohoney, tomorrow.)

SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

Dear Miss Smart:

I am a bit of a year of age. There is a boy who passes our house every day. Whenever he goes by he always comes up on the porch for a minute and talks to me. My mother doesn't like this and she says that I try to attract him. I have explained to her that I don't but she won't believe me. She says the neighbors talk about me. I like this boy and I don't want to give up his friendship. What would you advise me to do?

ANXIOUS

I wonder, if perchance, there is a certain little Miss who happens to be sitting on the porch each day when a certain boy happens to pass? It is quite likely and natural for her mother to tell her to avoid any appearance of being forward. She is very young and it does not look exactly proper for her to have a daily caller.

That that is necessary is for her to keep out of the way of the hour when this boy is accustomed to pass her home. Her mother is right in asking that she give others no opportunity to criticize her unfavorably. If she sees less of the young boy, it is very improbable that her mother will ask her to give up his friendship entirely.

Dear Miss Smart:

(1) When a young man has invited his girl friend to take dinner with his parents, what should she do? (2) Would he like to entertain three couples with only two parents? Should he later be invited at the same table?

MARY JANE

(1) An invitation from the mother is not altogether necessary although it would help greatly in making the young girl feel that her presence is desired. It is probable, however, that the mother feels her son will extend the invitation properly for her and that it will be unnecessary to give a personal invitation. (2) Since you are only having two couples and they are all acquainted with your parents it would be very nice to ask your mother and father to join you in having dinner.

LEARN A WORD A DAY

TODAY'S word is IRONIC. It's pronounced iron-ee, with accent on the second syllable.

It means—characterized by a kind of humor or light sarcasm which adopts a mode of speech implying the opposite of the literal sense of the words.

"The distinguishing quality of irony," says an eminent authority, "is that the meaning intended is contrary to that seemingly expressed: one says one thing and means the opposite."

It comes from — Latin "ironia," meaning "a dissimulation or concealment of real facts."

It's used like this—"To the persons who have criticized him for his efforts to keep down coal prices, despite the strike. Secretary of Commerce Hoover has returned an ironic answer."

CHAPTER VII INTERFERENCE

For an hour or more Dick waited patiently at his wireless dicta-graph in Garrick's room.

In the silence, broken now and then by some amateur, he had plenty of time to think of Ruth.

In spite of himself his suspicious carried him on to the Parr robbery, some of the valuable jewels as well as the looking of the Parr cellar of some of his choicest vintages. His thoughts ran beyond that, to the radio dance and the suspicious signaling from the tower of the Gerard house.

Who was the ringleader of this misadventure? He thought of Brook, of Georges—and of Jack Currick. He gripped his teeth. He hated the very name of the debonaire adventurer.

Dick started from his reverie. The dictagraph was working!

Through the high resistance head-pieces he heard voices, almost as if from one of the old phonographs.

He strained his ears to recognize the voices. It was Vira speaking. To Ruth?

"Well, here we are again. For a second last night I thought we were never going to get to the old inner circle again. You're some driver.

Anybody else at the wheel and—well, dead girls tell no tales!"

As Dick's keen ears focused at attention he could recognize Ruth's laugh.

MOON-MAN HAS HARD SEASON AHEAD

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"I declare," he exclaimed, "I'm going to be as busy this spring as a cat at a dog show."

Mr. Peabody, the Man-in-the-

Moon, was taking Nancy and Nick over the moon showing them the sights.

"Say," he said suddenly, "do you know I completely forgot about the list you brought with you from the earth. If we're going to try to please folks we'd better begin.

"Let's see!" Here a letter from

Tommy Brown. He wants a pony and thinks perhaps my fairies can help him out. Well, maybe they can.

"I'll speak to Wink about it. He's my chief dream-mixer. I'll tell him to mix up dreams for Tommy and his daddy and the man who sells ponies. Between them they ought to fix it up some way.

"And here's a letter from Susie

Smith." Went on Mr. Peabody.

"She says she's heard so much about my moon-fairies that she'd like to see one some night. Let me see! It might be arranged."

Mr. Peabody stroked his long beard, then scratched his bald head.

time. Eh? Now what do you make of that?"

There was a volley of laughter from everybody.

"That was a call from the gar-rage," came Jack's voice. "That

Garrick guy—there was a laugh, for they were all in a stage where a pun is as high a form of humor as any—has been hanging around. My man left. But someone saw Garrick in a taxi."

"With Dick?" This quick query was from Ruth and a bit anxious.

"No, alone."

"Oh..." Her voice died off in relief.

"I've sent another fellow out.

Hope he's in time."

"Where?" This from Vira.

"Your place." Jack seemed to pound a table. "They'll give him

the beating of his life, confound him!—mash his face in—put him in the sheets for a week—maybe—

Blatt!

Dick tinkered and tickled and adjusted. All he got was some fool amateur on the same wire length.

He swore. He tried to swear over the ether, but with ill success. The interference was there to stay, as it always is when one is listening in on something pretty good.

Dick was sore. But he was not surprised. When he first became greatly interested in wireless some eighteen months before there had been perhaps fifty thousand wireless telephone receiving sets. A year later there had been six hundred thousand. Today, he knew,

one authority had estimated a million and the government had estimated a million and a half in the papers that week. No, Dick was sore, but not surprised. In fact he would have been pleased at almost any other time. For, even if his family were wealthy, Dick had visions of himself some day doing better than the biggest of the radio firms which was doing business at the rate of fifty million dollars a year. Thoughts like this and no place in his mind, now. All he knew was that he was the victim of interference. And he was sore—and worried, too.

For the use of the ether (begging the pardon of Einstein and his theory) is not limitless. It will accommodate just so many wireless messages and no more—until such an invention as Dick was working on was perfected. When that limit is reached, the air becomes a boiler factory.

Dick cast the headgear in useless vacation on the table.

It seemed to him that he had been on the point of getting just the important thing he wanted to hear

He had been making notes as he went along, for somewhere he had heard something about the method of detecting.

His mind was in a whirl, as if a dozen mental ether at once. Then, suddenly, as if unconsciously, he had sharpened the thoughts to the exact wave length, one idea seemed to swamp all others.

Dick felt that he must get to this place where Ruth had spent the night and where Garrick was running into danger, if he had not already fallen into it. And he must get there first.

He tore out of the apartment, grabbed the first taxi, rode only a few blocks and dismissed him.

As he sped down the block, he could see a car in front of Gerard's.

Then a man ran across under the arc light. Dick quickened. He saw in the shadow two men struggling and a third creeping toward them.

Dick could make out Garrick. He was just in time. He hurled himself at the other attacker. They were two against two, now.

But at the moment when it seemed that each was getting the upper hand of his man, a couple of others ran on. Evidently they had been trailing him from Garrick's,

where they must have been watching.

The fight of the four now swung entirely against Garrick and Dick.

From the Avenue whence had come the new assailants, now came a quick scurry of feet. A whistle.

Baby Specialists.

THAT there are Physicians who specialize on Infant ailments you know. All Physicians understand Infant troubles: all Physicians treat them. It is his profession, his duty, to know human ills from the Stork to the Great Beyond.

But in serious cases he calls in the Specialist. Why? He knows as every Mother knows, or ought to know, that Baby is just a baby, needing special treatment, special remedies.

Can a Mother be less thoughtful? Can a Mother try to relieve Baby with a remedy that she would use for herself? Ask yourself; and answer honestly!

Always remember that Baby is just a baby. And remembering this you will remember that Fletcher's Castoria is made especially for Infants and Children.

Fletcher's
CASTORIA

The False and the True.

Advertising by the use of large space, the expenditure of huge sums of money have placed on the market, have put in your home, perhaps, many articles that today have been discarded, as you will readily admit. Do you recall anything that has more modestly appealed to the public than has Fletcher's Castoria: modest in all its claims, pleading at all times—and truthfully—for our babies?

The big splurge, the misleading claims may win for a time, but the honest truth-telling advertiser is like the old story of the tortoise that beat the hare.

Mothers everywhere, and their daughters, now mothers, speak frankly, glowingly, enthusiastically in praise of Fletcher's Castoria. Speak of it lovingly as a friend that has brought comfort, cheer and smiles to their little-ones.

To them: these true mothers no argument can induce them to set aside their bottle of Castoria, their old friend, that they might try even another and unknown remedy for babies. Then, would YOU think of going to YOUR OWN medicine chest to find relief for Baby's troubles? Can you not separate the false from the true?

Someone rapped at with a hickory stick on the curb, making hollow echoes.

The four fled.

The newcomers hauled Garrick and Dick unceremoniously to their feet. "You're under arrest!" One of them flashed a badge. "Saw you come out of the cellar of the Inner Circle last night. Also you were on that roof tonight!"

Garrick looked at the badge. They were revenue enforcement men. He pulled his own card, issued by the Comptroller of the State. There was a moment of perplexity, then explanations and apologies.

"Thought you were in the Velvet Gang, too."

"The Velvet Gang?"

"Yeh—that's what we nicknamed that bunch of aristocratic rum-runners."

GENIUS CENTERED AROUND AUTOS

General Motors Backed by Some of Greatest Brains

STETTINIUS AMONG NUMBER

Industry Linked With Morgan Banking House

(BY B. C. FORBES)

NEW YORK — (Special) — The greatest automobile organization in the world is not the Ford company, but General Motors. Its output is prodigious. Its products range from low-priced to high-priced cars and embraces also, trucks and tractors and all kinds of accessories and equipment.

If management counts—and management does count—General Motors ought to have a wonderful future, for it now has the benefit of some of the ablest brains in America. The right kind of financial backing is also important. General Motors now has that.

I am told that Edward R. Stettinius, the industrial president who has become one of the heavyweights of the Morgan banking house, has taken General Motors under his wing and is devoting his talents to creating the strongest possible financial structure for this mammoth organization. No business man's reputation has grown more impressively than Stettinius' during the last half dozen years. Lord Northcliffe, who represented the British government officially in speeding up the production of war materials, told me that during all his experiences he had not come across an able business man than Stettinius.

Then, General Motors now has the Dupont brains behind it. While Coleman Dupont is by far the best-known member of the Dupont family, he himself has assured me in all sincerity that he isn't one-two-three with another Dupont, Pierre. The Duponts have associated with them another man who is declared by those who know him to be a veritable business genius, J. J. Raskob, who, I am told, began as a street car conductor and won his way to one of the most responsible executive positions in America thru sheer ability and a phenomenal capacity for solving difficult problems thru sustained hard study and hard work.

It should interest the public to know that the most important concern in what has become one of America's foremost industries is guided by business and industrial men of this calibre.

It still looks as if the stock market were in the early stages of a long upward swing. Public Utility and railroad stocks should do distinctly better by and by. Cautious investors, however, would do well to fight shy of industrial stocks boomed by mergers. Mergers, like stock dividends, don't mean, in the end, half as much as a lot of excitable people imagine.

George F. Baker, the eighty-two-year old New York banker, who has lately been giving away millions is sometimes called "The second richest man in America." His fortune has been estimated at as high as $300,000,000. One of his close friends and associates told me this week that he would guess Mr. Baker's wealth at not much more than $50,000,000.

If Ford should continue for a few more years at the pace he has been rolling up wealth during the last ten years, he will unquestionably become the richest man in the world when John D. Rockefeller passes on—that is, provided Mr. Rockefeller doesn't hand down his whole fortune to his only son, John D., Jr. I don't believe he will do this.

As a matter of fact, I was present when Mr. Rockefeller gave a most impressive talk to his grandchildren, in which he explained to them, in language they could understand, how he was arranging to reward those of them who grew up to be the right kind of men. "But," he added, "if any of you don't behave yourselves properly and grow up to be the kind of men I and your father would like you to become, then understand very clearly that you will not get the reward I have told you about. I have given orders that, if you shouldn't behave yourselves properly, you will not receive anything at all." After a pause, Mr. Rockefeller added, but you will all be good boys and grow up to be good men, won't you?"

Have you ever noted the curious fact that our wealthiest Americans all have had either one son or no son at all? Rockefeller has one son, Carnegie had no son, Ford has only one son, Frick had only one son, Baker has one son, Schwab has no children, Mellon (Secretary of the Treasury) has one son, Schiff had one son, Vincent Astor is an only son, Garry has no son, Armour has no son, Wilson (the packer) has only one son, Patterson had only one son, Eastman is a bachelor.

"You are richer than I am," a very wealthy man recently remarked to me on discovering that I had three young boys. There was a ring in his voice that sounded as if he meant it.

After all, the rich fellows haven't everything any more than the rest of us, have they?

Schwab's parents, who have just observed their sixty-second wedding anniversary, visited Pittsburgh and, of course, were buttonholed by reporters. The father, when sounded out about the wonderful success of his son, made this thoughtful reply:

"Yes, Charles has been quite a success, as most people gauge success, but that doesn't make him let up on work a bit. He's hard at it every day at his home near ours, up Loretta way."

A good many parents would rather see their sons make somewhat less of a "success" and find a little more time to spend with them in a quiet, domestic way.

Not enough incentives and rewards are held out to workers, par-

OLD MAIDS STEP TO THE FORE

Ideal Age of Movie Heroine Now Given As 28 Years

EDICT OF PUBLIC OPINION

Brought Out by Nation-Wide Scenario Contest

CHICAGO — (Associated Press) — Old maids need hang their heads no longer.

The ideal age for a heroine of moving picture romance or of love stories generally is today 28 years, an age that only a few years ago was regarded by the general public as fixing the woman definitely in the ranks of confirmed spinsterhood. This is the conclusion made from a careful study of the 27,000 love stories which the lay public, amateurs from all walks of life, wrote for the scenario contest recently conducted by The Chicago Daily News. Representing not what writers and magazine editors or screeners guess the public's choice to be, these manuscripts were first hand information on the actual tastes of the people who buy books and who attend moving picture exhibitions.

"Striking unity among the nationally scattered contestants upon the subject of the heroine's age is among the first things to be noted by the judges," said James Shryock, director of the contest today, announcing the facts as brought out by the competition. "It is too general to be accidental and represents undoubtedly, a country-wide change in ideal of the heroines as in their teens, only a handful, are in their early twenties, the great majority are around 27 and 28, the authors seeming to regard this age as woman's best and woman as more beautiful, intelligent, poised and attractive than previously. The judges declared that the age of the ideal heroine had been advancing steadily since the 1870's when a girl of 16 or 17 was regarded as romantically perfect.

"The judges explain this by citing woman's entrance into industry, politics, education and by pointing out that woman today refuses to grow old and takes better and more intelligent care of her beauty than she did in the early periods. In the stories written by women, 60 per cent of the total, the heroines were on the average four or five years older than in the stories written by men."

SCREEN COMICS DEVELOP DISTINCTIVE ART FORM

(BY ESTHER WAGNER)

THE one form of photoplay distinctively American is the comic.

The first slapsticks made by Chaplin and Sennett employed the European idea of clowning. That form has since been modified resulting in the evolution of an anomalous form of expressing somewhere between clowning, buffoonery and dramatic comedy. Examples of this form are "Pay Day," "Trouble," "Grandma's Boy," and "Poor Boy."

This form has proved so popular that producers of polite comedy are injecting farce and rough comedy into their comedies. This a large percentage of American motion pictures, probably one-third, is expressed in a form that finds no counterpart on the stage or in fiction.

Many of the new series of comedies strike this medium of expression. One such is the series starring Arthur Housman, the first of which is "The Snitching Hour."

His work in "Why Announce Your Marriage?" at the Quilna last week was one of the best bits of acting in the film.

Evidently no expense is spared in the making of these comedies, for the case includes Gladys Leslie, Nina Naldi, Frank Currier, George Looney, Charles Craig and Mario Carillo.

Normal Talmadge In "The Wonderful Thing"

NORMA TALMADGE's admirers know how close this one comes to the idea. Well, Norma is seen as Josephine Boggs, whose father raises hogs in Iowa. Because she is wealthy, and because wealth means much to the Hinnerlys, whose son Josephine is to marry, they tolerate her as their guest, but never hesitate to impress upon her how far beneath them she is. Later, of course, her husband and his family come to love her for herself alone, and in the face of her sublime sweetness and generosity they all become happy.

Besides Miss Talmadge and Mr. Harrison, you are impressed with the work of Mrs. Lydie Hoyt, the famous society leader, who possesses both magnetism and charm, but who has been forced to become subservient to her director. Scenes, photography, etc., are fine.

So we pass on with the remark that "The Wonderful Thing" is worthy of anyone's time, money and attention.

At the Sigma today and until Thursday.

Good Melodrama In "Fair Lady"

HERE'S a picture that combines all the elements of a good photoplay with a story that has won renown as one of the most absorbing tales ever written. "The Net," as written by Rex Beach, was a thrilling tale to read; in its cinematic version, called "Fair Lady," it is equally thrilling, and enacted by a cast that is splendid.

The Mafia—one of the most deadly of the Italian secret societies, has been taken as the nucleus of the tale, about which the adventures of a bride are woven. The action starts in Sicily, with Miss Betty Blythe, the adorable in a bride's cloth-of-silver gown, who is the bride of the day, to be killed while on his way to the wedding, and the bride, still in her veil and silver finery, declares vengeance against the man or men who have ruined her happiness and her life. A friend of the bridegroom, an American, who happened to be with him at the time of his death, is sent away in disgrace.

Five years elapse, and the action switches to the Italian quarter of New Orleans, where, it seems, the secret society has become a menace. Here melodrama with a capital M. enters into the thing, with the American friend (Robert Elliott) as the hero and the bride, who has changed her name, as the heroine. The action is deep enough and varied enough to suit even the creator of the tale, and the audience of which I was one seemed deeply satisfied with the picture.

The Sicilian settings are exquisite, the cast surprisingly good, and the direction of the best Gladys Hulette, Thurston Hall and Florence Auer all made good in their respective roles.

"Fair Lady" is the attraction today at the Lyric theatre. Take it in and see a really absorbing movie.

"The Crimson Challenge"—Quilna

DESPITE her new boyishness, Dorothy Dalton easily demonstrates in her new picture, "The Crimson Challenge," that she is just as alluring and as charming as ever.

"The Crimson Challenge," please be informed, is a film version of "Tharon of Lost Valley." Why they changed the title to a more or less commonplace one, I really can't say. Anyway, the picture is exceptionally well done, so you probably won't mind the interference in the title this time.

Lost Valley is a place where the settlers are having a terrible time with cattle rustlers. The leader of the latter is a certain Buck Courtney, who goes his own sweet way, regardless of sheriffs, judges and soldiers. He is Tharon, the hero (Tharon is Dorothy Dalton) and decides that the girl, having shown fight and a lot of it, is the proper mate for him. The fact that he has a wife at home doesn't bother the man, nor does he care that Tharon views him with the fond affection which might eventually lead to a matrimonial disaster. He thinks he'll divorce his wife; then he'll marry Tharon. But—

He gets left! Of course you know he would, but how he does makes the picture material.

Miss Dalton grows on your sympathies as the picture progresses. At first you are likely to fret and wonder why, in the name of common sense, she ever bobbed her hair. Al-

DIPLOMAS AWARDED MANY AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Annual Children's day exercises were merged with the morning service at the First Baptist Church Sunday morning. More than 30 children took part in the program which was given under the direction of superintendents of each department. They are Mrs. A. O. Hotchkiss, Mrs. Troutman and Mrs. Warren L. Steeves.

Oscar N. Young, superintendent of the Sunday school, passed out diplomas, showing that each child had finished that particular course and was ready for promotion to the next class.

The First Baptist Bible school has a membership of 650.

CERTIFICATES ARE GIVEN 122 BY SUNDAY SCHOOL

One hundred and twenty-two children were given certificates of graduation from one course to the next higher, at the annual commencement exercises of the School of Religious Education of Christ Episcopal church, Sunday morning.

Special music for the exercises was sung by the children. Services were held in the church, instead of the Sunday school room. Roy B. Barnhardt, school superintendent, was in charge of the exercises.

Esteemed Toledo Woman Pours Out Her Gratitude to Tanlac For Restoring Her After Everything Else Failed.

"I am so grateful for what Tanlac has done for me I can hardly express myself," said Mrs. Charles Newman, 258 Field Ave., Toledo, Ohio. "My hands and feet had become swollen and it seemed to me every joint in my body ached. I could hardly walk, in fact, I suffered intensely if I moved around at all. I wore rubber bandages all the time, trying to keep down the swelling, but still I suffered. My indignation was bad, too, and I was sure to be in misery for hours no matter how careful I was in what I ate. I suffered so much I just lived in dread of becoming totally helpless as I was getting worse all the time. "My husband persuaded me to try Tanlac and that proved to be the turning point, for it has now entirely rid me of both indigestion and rheumatism and I never felt better or more active in my life. Tanlac is, without doubt, a wonderful medicine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

SHORT SHAVINGS

Calvin Selfridge has attained great proficiency in dictating letters into a dictaphone. He can pick up the receiver and pour a letter into it with all the ease and fluency imaginable. In a moment of absent-mindedness he took down the telephone receiver and dictated more than half a letter into it before he discovered his mistake.

"The telephone operator," he says, "seemed a little surprised."

Ralph Mackenzie left his auto in front of a dance place. He always can tell his own car because it is an exceptional car. It runs so much better than other cars of the same make. He might not notice it at once. That's how he happened to drive off with another car of the same make when he left the dance place. "But I can't be fooled about that car," he says. "I noticed the difference as soon as I tried to climb a hill."

Jim Jolley says he didn't feel comfortable because his foot tickled. As it turned out, the needle with which one of his socks was darned had been left sticking in the heel when he put his sock on. "I noticed it particularly," he says, "when I was stamping my feet at the ball game."

Sylvan Helstine took his elegant car to a garage and told the garage man something seemed to be wrong with it. "Nearly everything is wrong with it," reported the mechanic. "The only thing in really good working order is the clock and that's too fast."

KNOWLEDGE OF HEAD SETS SAVES WIRELESS MAN

(BY PAUL F. GODLEY)
America's Foremost Radio Authority

Have you ever been stranded in a broken-down auto many miles from a house or telephone?

A radio amateur once found himself in this predicament—with a snapped rear axle in an Arizona desert some 40 miles from the nearest phone, with no possibility of meeting any passerby for 16 hours. There was nothing to eat and no water to drink. The sun had gone down; the coyotes were beginning to cry in the hills.

The only signs of civilization were a few telephone wires supported on steel poles, as they took a short cut over the hills and valleys and a lonely tin shack left some years before by the government surveyors.

A WAY OUT—The problem was how to so alter the circumstances with the resources available as to make it possible to get to a hotel where food, shelter and rest awaited. Thoughts of spending the night on the desert without nourishment and with no sleeping equipment were not lightly put aside. There was a baby in the party.

To this amateur, the telephone line suggested possibilities. It meant a telephone connection, providing the proper apparatus was available. The only other thing to be seen which was not scenery was the tin shack.

A mountainside was climbed, and the shack entered. Good fortune had left an antiquated type of telephone within the shack. Years of idleness had rotted the cords. The batteries were worthless. The ringing device would not operate. But the magnetic telephone receiver was still intact and in good condition. It was taken out and examined, carried off to the telephone pole, and connected across a likely looking pair of wires.

A few seconds later a beautiful voice said, "Hello, Phoenix." No opportunity was given for further conversation here. This amateur immediately interrupted, explaining rapidly to the Phoenix operator who he was and the nature of his predicament.

RESCUED—She was interested and agreed to arrange to send garage men with spare parts and food, and she kept her promise. Three and a half hours later, these men put in their appearance, and by half past 2 in the morning, the 60 miles between the lonely desert location and Phoenix had been covered, and the entire party was deep in slumber.

The stark drivers between Globe and Phoenix today carry magnetic telephone receivers for just such emergencies. They got their idea from a radio amateur.

Many times circumstances will warrant the use of telephone lines in this way, and the radio magnetic telephone will turn the trick.

EXPERT IS AFTER STATIC BUGABOO

Static is bound to be overcome, with government and other radio experts concentrating all their energies against this bugaboo. Dr. L. W. Austin, head of the radio research laboratory of the U. S. Navy Department, is one of the engineers seeking the downfall of static. Here he is shown with the loop aerial with which he has been conducting tests to reduce atmospheric interference.

Girls Beware of Wrinkles That Form Around Eyes or Mouth

When They Appear, As They Surely Will, Try This Successful Treatment.

The most dependable and effective method I know of is to massage them with an old-time buttermilk cream recipe made by Howard Bros., of Buffalo, N. Y., rubbing gently across the line of the wrinkles to bring new fresh blood to the surface. If you will do this for about five minutes each night before retiring no other treatment is necessary.

Howard's Buttermilk Cream is obtainable at any up-to-date drug or toilet goods counter and no matter whether you are troubled with wrinkles, hard little lines around eyes and mouth; coarse, sallow, faded looking skin or simply roughness and redness caused by wind or sun, you will find these troubles quickly disappear with the use of this old-fashioned recipe brought up-to-date. Remember the name, Howard's Buttermilk Cream. If you cannot obtain locally send 10 cents (silver or stamps) for generous trial package, both cream and soap. Howard Bros. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.
